

- The first section is easy. It should be an exact copy of the third section from last week — that is, your goals from a week ago. (It can be empty for the first .)
  - We did not have goals, since it was the first week.
- The second section should report the progress you've made this week: what you've done, what worked, what you learned, where you had trouble, and where you are stuck.
  - We created the GitHub Repository, as well as our Google Doc. We also created the Trello project which contained a board. Inside the board was four lists. They were the backlog, to do, doing, and done. Once we finished this section, we then went and assigned everyone to their individual roles.
- The third section should outline your plans and goals for the following week (including, in the team report, who is responsible). Bullet points are fine. If tasks from one week aren't yet complete, they should roll over into your tasks for the next week. It's good to include some less-detailed longer-range schedule items in this list as well, so that you don't think just about the next week.
  - Since we are still learning the basics, our main goals are to currently finish the Flask assignments individually. We will also complete the second Sprint together as a group. These tasks are currently assigned to everyone.